Corporate Counsel Women of Color Adds Virtual Component to Sold Out Live Event

We are excited to announce that the Corporate Counsel Women of Color and Hogan Lovells 16th Annual Career Strategies Conference is SOLD OUT!

For the first time in our history we will offer a virtual component to our already live sold out event.

The virtual add on is huge because for the last 16 years including this year, our event has been completely sold out with hundreds on the waiting list who could not attend. Now with intense focus on the challenges underrepresented groups face, the live + virtual conference can help to educate corporations and law firms on what needs to be done to level the playing field.

The robust virtual + live conference will take place September 28-October 3, 2020 and now offers over 100 presenters and five straight days of programming including the Chief Legal Officer Summit, Virtual Fireside Chats with over 50 participating General Counsels, Corporate Legal Department Career Power Networking Sessions with companies including Amazon, Google, Microsoft, and The Home Depot, as well as Legal Practice Group Networking Sessions.

Our renowned and signature Boot Camp Program will offer continuing legal education credits and over 50 participating Chief Legal Officers, on cutting-edge best practices in light of the new COVID-19 era including privacy, corporate social responsibly, mergers and acquisitions, crisis management, and legal implications of remote workers.

Equally important in these heightened and sensitive times of racial equality and justice, we will host a Chief Diversity Officer Summit with diversity leaders who will provide a concrete plan of action for corporations and law firms to dismantle racism, discrimination, and barriers in the workplace for women of color attorneys.

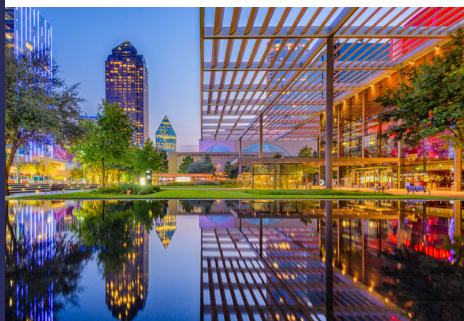

The conference's Thursday and Friday presentations include these national headliners:

- Andrew Yang, lawyer, philanthropist and 2020 presidential candidate.
- John Quinones, host of What Would You Do? and ABC News correspondent.
- Cynthia Marshall, CEO of the Dallas Mavericks.
- Johanna B. Cole, president of the National Council of Negro Women.
- Simone Wu, Diamond Award honoree and senior vice president, general counsel and corporate secretary of Choice Hotels.
- Tracy Preston, general counsel for Neiman Marcus Group, Inc.
- Pastor Sheryl Brady, author and pastor of The Potter's House of North Dallas.
- Minda Harts, Author of "The Memo: What Women of Color Need to Know to Secure a Seat at the Table" and Host of the #SecureTheSeat Podcast.

We all can agree that the CCWC conference is needed now more than ever. The death of George Floyd struck a nerve with so many. The fight is not just for equality in law enforcement and the criminal justice system, but also in our workplaces—at our corporations and law firms. The CCWC conference is critical because it is where many of us go one time in the year to replenish, refuel, and renew. This year, whether you participate live or virtually, you will definitely feel empowered and inspired and know that you are not alone.

An aerial photograph of a terraced rice field in a lush green forest. The terraces are filled with water, creating a vibrant, multi-colored pattern of blues, purples, pinks, and greens. The terraces are arranged in a series of concentric, wavy lines that follow the contours of the land. The surrounding forest is dense and green, with some trees showing signs of autumn. A small cluster of buildings is visible in the upper right corner of the image.
